SOURCE

1. Adelaide, sister of Archduke Otto of Habsburg, held conferences with Hungarian and Austrian legitimists during a recent visit to Rome. She also received a delegation from Vienna.
2. She disclosed Otto's plan to publish a Hungarian weekly in America for world distribution. Otto commissioned Boris Balla, a Hungarian journalist, to leave for the United States in order to prepare the publication which was originally scheduled for printing in Paris.

Comment: The Kronika (Chronicle) a monarchical monthly published in New York since 1941, is considered the voice of the Habsburgs among the Hungarians in America. As such, it makes its legitimist character clear.)

3. Baron Gabor Apor and Monsignor Zoltan Nyister will extend their cooperation to this endeavor in Rome.
